The Nodaway-Holt School District uses assessments validated by higher education to identify students who (1) are ready for college-level coursework in high school or (2) need additional supports to be college ready. All students who score at the college ready level on the assessment have the opportunity to enroll in dual credit courses in 12th grade. The district also looks at assessments prior to 11th grade to identify student potential for success in advanced coursework. Similarly, all students who score below the college-ready level on the assessment will receive the opportunity to enroll in courses in 12th grade that solidify their knowledge in core areas and expose them to the skills necessary for success in higher education. The district recognizes students and parents need timely and actionable information on students' readiness for post secondary coursework. Too often, preparation perceptions do not align with the reality of student performance. This lack of alignment can lead to students internalizing that they are "not college material." The district works with higher education leaders to educate students and parents about the expectations for college readiness, the realities of student performance, and the availability of supports to help all students make a successful transition to post secondary education.

The LEA will monitor students' progress in meeting the challenging Missouri Learning Standards by

- Identifying and implementing instructional and other strategies intended to strengthen academic programs and improve school conditions for student learning

These teams come together for a common purpose, typically to meet a wide range of learners more effectively. These teams may have a long-term agenda for working together (an entire academic year) or short-term agendas such as completing a unit together or preparing students for some specific skills (e.g., state testing, science project). Despite the numerous co-teaching relationships that can exist, for the purpose of this module, the examples will focus on collaboration between general and special education teachers in the general education classroom.
